

A Brief Introduction to Phi-Lambda Technology®

Published by PLT PHI-LAMBDA-TECHNOLOGY GmbH

Phi-Lambda Technology® acts on four levels: Space, Time, Matter and Life

At first glance, they are nothing but simple liquids, plastic discs, magnets or other types of "data carrier" - yet they can change your life. As explained here, Phi-Lambda Technology® does not follow the "normal" rules. It operates at those levels of matter, energy, space and life that conventional physics, chemistry and biology have not yet been able to penetrate. At the levels where mind and matter overlap and where life itself controls the biological processes in the organism.

Ancient lore known to initiates for thousands of years and new findings in what has long been a no-man's-land between mind and matter, also known as the astral plane, have at last converged and together they point the way to understanding the causes underlying the material manifestations of life. On the basis of this perception, Swiss bio-researcher and scientist André E. Oefeli has spent 27 years of research developing and refining Phi-Lambda-Technology®, which he has now adapted to suit a range of applications.

To benefit from Phi-Lambda-Technology® you don't have to understand how it works nor „believe“ in it - the bio-information carriers take effect all the same. However, we are of the opinion that sensible adults not only want to know but indeed should know how they are influencing their own life processes and the life processes of their plants and animals. And this is why you will find here a brief explanation of the hitherto unknown forces at work in every living organism as well as in „dead“ matter, and which have now been harnessed to enable Phi-Lambda-Technology® to achieve its gentle but profound effect.

Come with us on a journey of exploration - to the very roots of life!

Life manifests itself in the form of purpose. The essential difference between a dead plank and the same piece of wood in a living tree is that the wood in the tree is demonstrating a purpose - it wants to put out leaves, absorb sunlight, blossom and grow.

In a badly diseased or dead cell everything tends towards immobility, whereas in a living cell there is obviously something that drives it to ordered movement. The autonomous, single unit capable of pursuing such a purpose is called a lambda life quantum. Lambda life quanta are responsible for biological life.

An organism greater than the human body is animated by an astronomical number of life quanta. Like the workforce of a large concern, these are organised into a hierarchy in which every single life quantum is responsible for a particular area, which may be large or small. Every atom, every molecule, every organelle, every functional part of the body and every complete organism is controlled by at least one life quantum.

Where mind meets matter: Phi Lambda Technology® at the interface

Lambda life quanta are spiritual units and communicate telepathically. Magnetic fields, biophotons and similar phenomena are only secondary means of communication, enabling the lambda life quanta to control material processes by sending signals to and from matter.

Lambda level

mind
telepathy
„body's own intelligence“ (somatic intelligence)
Bio-energy control

Mental/spiritual phi-level

information communication
bio-energetic system

Material phi-level

matter, body
physical phenomena

This „interface“ between mind and matter is situated at the level of the phi life quanta. Phi life quanta include both mind and matter; that is on the one hand, those visible aspects of the mind that we know as matter, and on the other hand those aspects of matter that we call „astral information“. Irrespective of its „normal“ physical quality each particle of matter, energy and space includes phi life quanta, bearing mental/spiritual information that can be picked up by the lambda life quanta. Hence, phi life quanta can communicate telepathically not only with lambda and other phi life quanta but also at the material level with physical processes such as photon emissions etc.

According to the model on which Phi-Lambda-Technology® is based, there are three levels of activity for living organisms. An organisation of lambda life quanta operates at the lambda level (also known as the body's own intelligence or somatic intelligence), this is the decision-making plane. The motor and sensory paths of communication form an intermediate plane: the mental/spiritual phi plane on which phi life quanta communicate by telepathy as well as by fine material means. The lowest level, the material phi plane, is the only plane so far explored, the world of physically measurable phenomena. Using the newly discovered methods, Phi-Lambda-Technology® is able to intervene at the mental/spiritual phi plane in this system. It enables us to feed information to the phi life quanta, and from the mental/spiritual phi plane to the lambda plane.

These interventions are gentle and have no side effects, unlike interventions at the material phi plane such as genetic engineering, medication etc. which disregard the purposes of the lambda life quanta. Phi-Lambda-Technology® „only“ makes suggestions which are transmitted from phi to lambda. Life itself, lambda, then decides whether to work with the information received or not.

Death at any level can be equated with the departure of lambda life quanta. A dead cell is like a branch of a company that has been closed down, where no-one works any more. A dead organism can be compared to a company whose management has left.

Disease and illness come about when life quanta are unable to do their job properly or have become disorganised. The causes may be unfavourable external material influences or internal „poor management“.

In an ideal organism, one that is completely healthy, each life quantum fulfils its purpose correctly as a member of the total organism, just as each worker in a completely healthy company performs his job correctly, doing the right thing at the right time.

Phi life quanta and orthodox science

Life quanta are the spiritual elements that have been ignored by science up to now, although sensitive people have always been aware of the spiritual element in every form of life, as the „life force“, „psyche“ or „soul“.

What is new is the discovery that the life quantum is an autonomous unit, and the technically applicable understanding of its operation and organisational structure.

Many conventional scientific findings remain correct, but what is certainly incorrect is the assumption that life results from material processes. In fact, the reverse is true; the structures and processes observed are the result of the purposes and activities of life quanta!

Life quanta are not passive. They animate material in an extremely active manner by triggering bio-chemical and physical processes, by adapting to the situation, or by ending it.

We classify them according to their role:

Phi life quanta form the „inanimate“ or „coarse“ material substances. They are „rigidly programmed“ and predictable, which is why physics and chemistry, for instance, are relatively reliable or „exact“ sciences.

Lambda life quanta control life processes, animating and organising the phi substances. Their considerable freedom of action, together with our previous ignorance of their existence and behaviour, explains why pharmaceuticals and medicine, for instance, are relatively unreliable or „inexact“ sciences.

You, as an individual, do not consist merely of a complex material body: you are also a spiritual being*, with a mind that acts on this material body; in the same way, an organism, an organ, a system or a cell is not just a complex collection of inactive matter. Each living unit is a largely autonomous living organism, driven by all the purposes inherent in its lambda life quanta. Not only does it follow material laws but also - one might say - it does what the lambda life quanta want it to do.

*The human spirit (the individual personality or „ego“) can also be considered as a life quantum. However, it belongs to a higher order than the phi and lambda life quanta discussed here.